

ARCHAIA Praha o. p. s.

offers

STUDIES IN POST-MEDIEVAL ARCHAEOLOGY 2

Material culture from the end of the 15th century and its reflection in archaeological, written and iconographic sources

Content:

House of the armoury scribe at Prague Castle

Gabriela Blažková-Dubská

Jesuit college in Kutná Hora: courtyards and their facilities in the 17th-19th century.
Archaeological excavations in 1998-2005

Jan Frolík

Archaeology of the Post-Medieval period.

The current state of research and research perspectives in Southern Bohemia

Rudolf Krajč

Limits and possibilities of archive studies and its use in archaeology and building history.
(Experiences from the study of manuscripts from the New Town office for the 15th to 17th centuries)

Kateřina Samojská

The discovery of an Early Modern bell foundry on Jungmann Street in the New Town in Prague

Petr Juřina – Karel Kašák – Kateřina Samojská

Archaeological excavation of a Modern period brickworks on the Kimberly-Clark site in Jaroměř

Radek Bláha – Jiří Sigl

Renaissance glassworks in Broumy

Jaromír Žegklitz

From the Gothic period to the Renaissance. Glass in Moravia 1450 – circa 1560

Hedvika Sedláčková

Archaeological excavations of Anabaptist ceramics in Moravia

Jiří Pajer

A single type of tile stove in various late 15th century social milieus

Hana Jordánková – Irena Loskotová

A stove (?) sculpture from Velké Němčice (Břeclav district)

Zdeňka Měchurová

Finds of clay tobacco pipes from Náměstí Republiky in Prague's New Town

Martin Vyšohlíd

The first line of defence of Andělská Hora Castle

Tomáš Durdík

Late Medieval fortifications of the town of Hradec Králové

Radek Bláha

Baroque town house in Frývaldov

Peter Kováčik

Horní Víska, Tachov district, West Bohemia.

Archaeological and geobotanical investigation of a deserted village

Václav Matoušek – Petr Holý

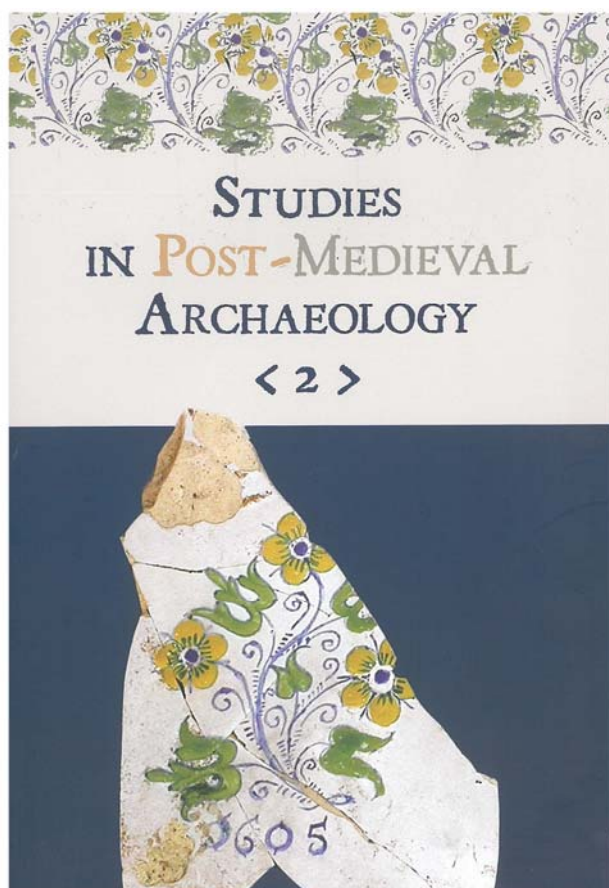

Renaissance cesspit from Malá Strana in Prague

Štěpán Rückl – Jan Havrda – Michal Tryml

Environmental analyses of the content of the Renaissance cesspit from Malá Strana in Prague

Finds from a Late Medieval well at Rakovník

Kateřina Blažková – Jana Lomecká

412 pages, format A4, softcover,
German abstract and Czech résumé, colour illustrations.

Price EUR 35.

Orders at:

Archaia Praha o. p. s.

Truhlářská 20

110 00 Praha 1

Czech Republic,

or at zegklitz@archaia.cz.